The string is converted into an array of int in which each element represents the number's digits. For example, the string 110 is converted into the array [1, 1, 0, 0, 1, 0] so that the sum of the elements of the array is the sum of the numbers represented by the string. For example, for input string "10010001", we have: 10010001 = (2^1) + (2^0) + (2^1) + (2^0) + (2^1) + (2^0) + (2^1) = 12 + 16 + 4 + 24 + 8 + 16 + 24 = 100 + 24 + 4 + 16 = 184 = 228 The problem is, I can only make it work with an input string of "11" "01", or "10101" (same thing), but not "110". When the string is "110" it doesn't work. Any suggestions? Thanks! My code is as follows: /* Write a function that takes an input string, converts it into an array of integers, and returns the sum of the array. */ #include #include #include #include

A fire broke out in the 24-storey block in north

Kensington, West London, on 14 June. It spread very quickly, trapping people as they slept. Seventy-one people died. In a statement, the Ministry of Defence said: "Following the fire that took place on 14 June 2017 in Grenfell Tower in London, MoD personnel gave first aid to at least three people who had been injured. "Two of these people were taken to hospital as a precaution and one was treated at the scene." The ministry said the two injured individuals were firefighters, who had attended the fire. The third person who was treated at the scene was a non-serving member of the public. "Our thoughts are with those who have lost family and friends in the Grenfell Tower fire," it said. The MoD also said that it had arrangements to provide medical support in the event of natural or human-made disasters, such as earthquakes and terrorist attacks. It issued its most recent annual report on resilience with the aim of "helping the defence and civil contingency planning community adapt to a range of hazards and emergencies." It said that while the department had "support and funding for operational resilience against a wide range of hazards, including earthquake, flood and tsunami, its ability to respond quickly in non-operational scenarios is even more limited." The report said the MoD's resilience work began after the 7 July 2005 London bombings, following which it directed its Civil Contingencies Secretariat to review its planning for a number of hazards. It said the review, which was published in December 2006, recommended that the MoD should prepare a programme of work to address its resilience to natural and human-made hazards."Derek has a secret…" My name is Claire Burch and I'm a very lucky human.
