The Otago Exercise

Programme (OEP) is a structured exercise programme for patients with chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD) that has been shown to improve exercise capacity, dyspnoea, quality of life (QoL) and survival. In the Italian version (OEPI), the benefit of OEPI over usual care has not been assessed in a randomised controlled trial. to test in a randomised controlled trial the hypothesis that OEPI is more effective in inducing benefits (i.e. reduced COPD exacerbations, improved exercise capacity, dyspnoea, QoL, and improved survival) than usual care. we randomly assigned OEPI to patients with mild to moderate COPD (38 in the OEPI group and 38 in
